

Summer Classics to donate $24,500 to Ovarian Cancer Research

Casual Living Staff -- Casual Living, 4/19/2012 3:19:59 PM

HIGH POINT, NC — Three years ago Susan Lambeth lost a courageous battle to Ovarian Cancer. Susan was a Summer Classics Sales Representative for 17 years prior to her death. Susan was a devoted wife, mother, daughter and sales representative for Summer Classics. Susan lived in Burlington, N.C.

Shortly after Susan's death Summer Classics introduced a new collection called Halo and announced that a percentage of sales for this group would be donated to Ovarian Cancer Research.

On Monday April 23, 2012 Summer Classics will present a check for $24,500 to the University of North Carolina Lineberger Comprehensive Cancer Center. This is the Hospital where Susan received care during her fight.

The donation will be made during the High Point Market at 5:30 pm in the Summer Classics Showroom. The Showroom is located in the Interhall Building on East Commerce Avenue. The showroom number is W-168.

Click Here to Read the Article Online.